I. Accreditation Performed by the Accreditation Council for Genetic Counseling

A. Overview

Accreditation performed by the Accreditation Council for Genetic Counseling (ACGC) is a voluntary peer-review process intended to assure quality and promote continual improvement in genetic counseling education. The ACGC was established in 2012 for the purpose of accrediting degree-granting graduate level programs in genetic counseling. Currently, the ACGC accredits master's degree programs in genetic counseling in the United States and Canada. To be accredited, genetic counseling training programs are required to be in compliance with ACGC Standards.

ACGC is a member of the Association of Specialized and Professional Accreditors (ASPA) and adheres to ASPA's Member Code of Good Practice described on ASPA's website:

<http://www.aspa-usa.org/>.

B. Benefits of Accreditation

ACGC accreditation assures students, employers, educational institutions, the profession, and the public that a program meets established standards that will enable it to produce graduates prepared to enter the genetic counseling workforce. Interaction between the ACGC, program directors, practicing genetic counselors, other genetic counseling professional organizations, and professional accrediting organizations informs the development of standards for accreditation and contributes to the vitality of the discipline.

Genetic Counseling Programs can critically evaluate their program at regular intervals by engaging faculty, staff, students, graduates and employers in the accreditation process of self-study. The interaction among these stakeholders and the ACGC provides an opportunity to make changes that will improve the program, and can stimulate discussion of how to innovate and capitalize on the program's unique strengths and assets. This, in turn enhances education for the profession.

Prospective students can identify accredited programs that meet their chosen profession's standards for academic education and clinical training. Graduation from an ACGC-accredited program is required to establish eligibility for the certification examination in genetic counseling by the American Board of Genetic Counseling (ABGC) and satisfies the educational requirements to be eligible for the Canadian Association of Genetic Counsellors (CAGC) board examination. Currently, all states that require a license in genetic counseling require applicants to hold ABGC certification.

Employers can expect that new graduates of ACGC-accredited programs will be well-prepared as entry-level professionals.

Colleges and universities can refer to published ACGC Standards for guidance in developing graduate programs in genetic counseling. Programs and their institutions both benefit from the self-evaluation and ongoing quality improvement that the accreditation process encourages.

The public can be assured that accredited programs in genetic counseling are evaluated extensively and meet high standards established by the profession. They can expect graduates of these programs to provide quality service.

C. Mission and Values of the Accreditation Council for Genetic Counseling

The Mission of the Accreditation Council for Genetic Counseling is to promote quality in genetic counseling education by establishing, maintaining, and applying standards for accreditation that reflect current knowledge and practice, and by encouraging innovation and excellence in training.

ACGC's Organizational Core Values:

- Integrity: We value honesty and good character in all aspects of our work.
- Quality: We incorporate best practices in accreditation for education in a dynamic and rapidly changing field.
- Fairness: We are committed to making consistent, equitable, and objective accreditation decision-making.
- Accountability: We take responsibility for our actions and the impact of our decisions.
- Collaboration: We value interacting with others committed to quality in genetic counseling education and accreditation.
- Transparency: We provide clear, direct, accessible information about our mission, scope, standards, and policies.
- Stewardship: We are strategic in using our staff, volunteer, and financial resources to assure sustainability and to maximize value to the programs we accredit.

D. Board of Directors

Authority of the Board of Directors

ACGC is incorporated as an independent 501(c)(3) organization in the state of Kansas. The Board of Directors (“Board”) is the governing body of the organization and is solely responsible for adopting standards and criteria by which genetic counseling graduate programs are evaluated, for establishing accreditation policies and procedures, for making accreditation decisions, and for overseeing the affairs of the organization. ACGC accredits graduate-level degree programs in genetic counseling in the United States and Canada.

Board Composition

The governing body of ACGC is the Board which includes members who represent academic programs, administrators/educators, professional practitioners, and the public. The Executive Director, who serves as Chief Operating Officer of the ACGC, is an ex-officio member of The Board. The responsibilities of the Board are described in the Bylaws of the ACGC which also describe election to The Board, terms of office and process for removal from office.

The Board consists of the following:

Academic Members
Educator Members
Certified Genetic Counselor Members
At-large Member
Public Member

An Academic member is someone currently or recently engaged to a significant degree in teaching, research, or administration at an educational institution not necessarily associated with a genetic counseling program.

An Educator member is someone directly and significantly involved with an accredited graduate program in genetic counseling (e.g., professor, instructor, academic dean, clinical supervisor, program leader).

A Certified Genetic Counselor member is someone who is certified by the American Board of Genetic Counseling and whose primary job focuses on genetic counseling.

An At-large member may be appointed from any of the other member categories.

A Public member is not professionally associated with the genetic counseling profession. As defined by the U.S. Department of Education, a “representative of the public” is a person who is not (a) an employee, member of the governing board, owner or shareholder of, or consultant to a program that either is accredited or has applied for accreditation by the ACGC; (b) a member of any trade association or membership organization related to, affiliated with, or associated with the ACGC; or

(c) a spouse, parent, child, or sibling of an individual identified in (a) or (b).

For a list of current Board members, please see the website.

Officers of the Board of Directors

The officers of the ACGC Board of Directors are the President, Immediate Past President, Secretary/Treasurer, and Program Review Chairperson.

ACGC Committees

The ACGC Board of Directors and/or the President of ACGC create committees to fulfill necessary functions of the Board. Standing committees include the:

- Executive Committee, which consists of the officers of the Board.
- Nominating Committee, responsible for the process of electing Directors to the Board.
- Program Review Committee (PRC), which reviews applications for Accreditation and Re- accreditation, recruits and trains site visitors, organizes and receives reports from site visits, evaluates reports of current status and program responses, and makes recommendations to the Board regarding accreditation decisions.

- Standards Committee, which develops, regularly reviews, and proposes revisions to the Standards.
- Grievance Committee, which considers complaints about accredited programs and ACGC's standards, policies or procedures.
- Finance Committee, which develops and monitors fiscal policies for the organization and oversees its financial affairs.

Executive Director and Staff

The Executive Director is responsible for guidance, management, and daily operations of the ACGC and serves as a non-voting, ex-officio member of the Board of Directors and Grievance Committee. The staff of the ACGC reports directly to the Executive Director.

Financial Policies

All financial policies, including the fee structure for accreditation, are set by the Board.

II. Standards for Graduate Programs (“The Standards”)

The Standards are used by ACGC to evaluate and accredit master’s degree-granting programs that prepare individuals to enter the genetic counseling profession. (The Standards can be downloaded from the ACGC website.) The extent to which a program complies with these Standards determines its accreditation status. The Standards are used for external and internal evaluation of existing graduate programs in genetic counseling and also to provide guidance for the development of new graduate programs. Graduation from a program that was accredited by ACGC at the time of matriculation is a requirement for eligibility to sit for the certification examination by the American Board of Genetic Counseling (ABGC) and the Canadian Association of Genetic Counsellors (CAGC) board examination.

In 1996, the American Board of Genetic Counseling (ABGC) established the Standards for accreditation of graduate programs in genetic counseling. In 2012 ACGC separated from ABGC. ACGC led a revision of the Standards which were approved as of February 13, 2013 (revised 2/13/2014). Compliance with these Standards was effective June 1, 2014. In 2018 and 2019, the Standards were revised to keep pace with changes in the genetic counseling field. The Board approved the revised Standards as of October 1, 2019. The Accreditation Manual that accompanies the new Standards is available here. Please see the website for a list of all relevant compliance dates for Candidacy applications and New Program accreditation applications. Compliance for all accredited programs is required as of May 1, 2021. The Standards will be reviewed every four years.

The Standards are the basis for accreditation decisions (See Section III). Program leadership must provide persuasive evidence to the Board that the program is fully compliant with the Standards. The Board strives to assure that the Standards are sufficiently detailed to be capable of consistent application but not overly prescriptive. Thus, the Standards are applied within the context of a program’s expressed mission, student body, institutional policies and procedures and other unique characteristics that impact the program’s leadership and administration.

Public Participation

ACGC values the input of all stakeholders in the development of Standards. Therefore, the Board provides advance notice of, and an opportunity to comment on all proposed new Standards and Standards revisions to accredited programs, professional genetic counseling organizations, certifying bodies, state licensing and other state regulatory agencies, accrediting organizations, and ACGC’s other communities of interest prior to their adoption. The public notice provides specific instructions on the process and timeline for submitting comments to the Board.

Wherever possible and appropriate, the Standards provide specific guidance regarding items that are deemed essential for a program to be in compliance. Such items are delineated by use of the terms “required,” or “must,” and, when specific documentation is required, this is noted. Where the term “should” is used, the standard must still be met, but programs have greater discretion in how compliance with the standard is achieved. In some cases, descriptors such as “adequate” or “sufficient” or “such as” are utilized to allow for variation among programs. In these circumstances, it is up to the program to define its own specific parameters and metrics. However, the program should be able to provide the rationale behind its choices, as this information will be considered in evaluating the self-study.

Section A: Administration

This section outlines requirements for the sponsoring institution, the graduate program, financial budget and security, program leadership, other personnel, and facilities that will support program functioning.

Standard A1: Sponsorship

Program leadership is required to report substantive changes in the budget that result in a reduction of revenue or resources must be reported to the ACGC Executive Office using the Substantive Change Report in accreditation management system (AMS) as soon as the changes are known. (See Section VII.)

Standard A2: Program Personnel and Faculty

In the event that a program leadership change is required, programs must submit notification of the leadership change, which includes interim leadership or a leave of absence, to the ACGC Executive Office 30 days in advance using the Program Leadership Change Report via AMS. Late fees ($500) will be assessed for all notifications that are less than 30 days prior to the leadership change. In the case of an emergency leave, contact the ACGC Executive Office as soon as the program is aware of the need for leadership change.

Standard A2.2: Faculty and Instructional Staff

Programs are responsible to submit ACGC biosketch forms for primary instructional faculty/course directors at the time of submission of all accreditation applications and to report new instructors at the time of the annual Report of Current Status (Section XX).

In addition, programs are responsible to report significant changes in faculty as explained in the Substantive Changes found in Section VII. Notification of substantive changes must be communicated via the Substantive Change Report via AMS to the ACGC Executive Office.

Standard A3: Operational Policies and Procedures

Standard A3.1 Sponsoring Institution

Any change in sponsoring institution, including acquisition by another institution or program requires submission of the Substantive Change Report via AMS to the ACGC Executive Office as soon as such a change is finalized. (See Section VII)

A3.2.3. Mission Statement and Objectives

Programs must report any change that substantively impacts the previously stated mission or goals using the Substantive Change Report via AMS. (See Section VII)

Standard B: Curriculum and Instruction

Standards in Section B outline the requirements for comprehensive documentation of all curriculum and instructional requirements including curricular and fieldwork design, content, and learning objectives with mapping to relevant PBCs.

Standards Sections B1: General and B2: Instructional Content

Substantive changes in curriculum, delivery method of didactic coursework, and/or a change in off-campus instructional site must be reported when they become known using the Substantive Change Report via AMS to the ACGC Executive Office. (See Section VII for definitions and information about substantive changes relative to program curriculum.)

B3: Clinical Training/Fieldwork Experience

Programs are required to report substantive changes in fieldwork placement sites as soon as they become known using the Substantive Change Report via AMS to the ACGC Executive Office. (See Section VII)

Section C: Evaluation

Section C involves the Standards that pertain to all aspects of evaluation and assessment of program infrastructure, student outcomes, leadership, faculty, and curriculum.

III. ACGC Peer Review Process

A. Conflict of Interest and Confidentiality

Volunteers completing work for ACGC including individuals who serve on the Board of Directors, Committee members, and Task Force members must comply with ACGC Conflict of Interest and Confidentiality policies. Conflict of Interest documentation is maintained by the Executive Office and updated at the outset of each ACGC activity. Conflict of interest may be considered when individuals have the following characteristics:

- a. Are currently employees of, or consultants to the sponsoring institution or have relatives who are appointees or employees of the sponsoring institution; or have served in one of these capacities during the current accreditation cycle;
- b. Are graduates of the sponsoring institution;
- c. Are involved with, or have been significantly involved with, supervising clinical rotations or teaching students from the sponsoring institution in the current accreditation cycle;
- d. Have close personal or professional ties with members of the program leadership or core faculty at the institution;
- e. Are program leaders or core faculty of a program that shares clinical sites, courses, and/or teaching modules with the program under review;
- f. Allow use of their ACGC affiliation for the advertising of non-ACGC educational programs or publications.

ACGC policy regarding confidentiality is that:

- a. site visitors may not, verbally or in writing outside of the site visit report, disclose information about the site visit to anyone (including representatives of the program) other than:
 - i. ACGC Board of Directors and Executive Office Staff
 - ii. PRC members

B. Program Review Committee/Site Visitors

The PRC recruits certified genetic counselors via public call for volunteers to perform program review. extensive training for PRC members, including site visitors, is conducted annually. Assigned PRC members review all documentation submitted by programs as part of their accreditation application as well as information learned as a part of site visits.

The site visit provides an opportunity for the PRC and ACGC Board to gain a more comprehensive understanding of the program, to verify that information contained in the accreditation self-study document is accurate, and to gather additional information about compliance concerns. Site visitors will assess physical facilities; meet with students, faculty, alumni, clinical supervisors, and institutional and program administrators, and examine internal documents such as student records, clinical case documentation and faculty or student evaluations.

IV. Applying for Accreditation Status

ACGC accredits qualified, Masters-level genetic counseling graduate programs located within institutions chartered by and physically located within the United States and Canada. Sponsoring institutions must be accredited by, and in good standing with, a recognized regional accrediting agency in the United States or approved by the provincial or territorial government in Canada and must be authorized by that agency to confer upon graduates of the program a master's degree. (Standards A1.1, A1.2).

The accreditation process is entirely dependent on the information submitted by the program leadership as a part of accreditation application and/or self-study documentation. Completion of the application and self-study materials should engage the program's entire community including its current and former students, faculty, administration, clinical supervisors, advisory board, and other stakeholders, such as employers who work with its graduates. The Accreditation Self-Study provides an opportunity to critically review the program's mission, goals, and educational components, to examine its strengths and weaknesses, to consider the impact of changes affecting the profession and the institution, and to give the ACGC Board and the Program Review Committee (PRC) a detailed description of the program and its compliance with the Standards. The application materials enable peer review by ACGC to conduct a comprehensive assessment of the developing program's proposed structure and educational plan for evidence of adequacy in compliance with the Standards.

A. The Candidacy and New Program Application Process

1. Candidacy Application

Candidacy applications are submitted by the sponsoring institution of a proposed genetic counseling graduate program. The application process for Candidacy status is outlined on the ACGC Website and is completed within the AMS program portal. Sponsoring institutions and the proposed Program Director must request recognition from the ACGC Executive Office for access to their program specific access within the Accreditation Management System (AMS).

Fees: A non-refundable fee must be paid upon submission of the Application for Candidacy (see Addendum B for current fee schedule)

Action Timeline:

ACGC will respond to the submitted Application for Candidacy within 6 weeks from the date of receipt. The two ACGC response options include: 1. that the sponsoring institution may receive Candidacy status or 2. the program may be asked to submit additional information before a Candidacy decision will be conferred. If the Application for Candidacy has missing information or lacks clarity, ACGC will notify the proposed program leadership and the sponsoring institution of the issues that will need to be addressed. The institution will have 60 days to respond and submit requested materials/information. If the institution does not satisfactorily respond to the information request within the 60-day timeframe, the Application for Candidacy will be denied and the program will be required to submit a new Application for Candidacy to reinstate the process.

2. Application for Accredited, New Program Status

Program candidates must submit a New Program Application within 2 years of receiving Candidacy status via the AMS. Applications are accepted twice per year (January 15 and May 15).

Fee: An application fee is due at the time of submission (see Addendum B for current fee schedule)

Action Timeline

Program leadership will be notified by the ACGC Executive Office of available openings in January and May dates for the next three review cycles. The program must select one of the three review cycle dates provided. Space in the cycle will not be considered reserved until the application fee is received by ACGC.

A maximum of three applications will be reviewed in each cycle for a total of 6 new program application reviews per year. If a particular cycle is full, it is possible that a developing program may not receive assignment to the review cycle that is their first choice. Programs must select one of the three immediately upcoming review cycle dates. In the unlikely event that all slots over the three cycles have already been assigned, the Executive Office will contact the program leadership to discuss new options.

Applications reviewed in the January 15 cycle will receive the first response from ACGC by April 1. Applications reviewed in the May 15 cycle will receive the first response from ACGC by August 1.

It is important to note that the first ACGC response is not equivalent to approval. Most developing programs go through more than one round of peer review by the ACGC Program Review Committee (PRC) and/or the ACGC Board prior to receiving a final accreditation decision. In addition, the Board may require the developing program to host a site visit prior to rendering a decision on the application.

The overall review timeline is dependent on the completeness and quality of the application, the time taken by developing programs to respond to requests for additional information, the number of communications required between ACGC and the proposed program, and whether a site visit is required as part of the review process. The average time for a final accreditation decision for a New Program Application for Accreditation is 8-12 months, however, ACGC does not guarantee an accreditation decision by any specific date.

Request for change in review cycle:

Once a review cycle date has been selected and reserved, Candidate programs may file a written request to change their review cycles; however, the time between Candidacy and review cycle should not exceed two years. Requests must be accompanied by a fee (see Addendum B for current fee schedule) and are granted subject to availability.

Any program that fails to submit a completed New Program Application for Accreditation by its review cycle date, or a written request to change review cycles, will forfeit any and all fees paid and will have its Candidacy status removed. A new Application for Candidacy and fee would then be required if the program wishes to continue working towards accreditation.

A program achieving Accredited, New Program status may admit students, who, upon successfully completing their degrees, will be deemed to have graduated from an ACGC-accredited program.

Maintaining Accreditation as a New Program:

An Accredited, New Program is expected to maintain compliance with Accreditation Standards and includes reporting requirements such as annual submission of the Report of Current Status. Programs that hold Accredited, New Programs status are subject to accreditation decisions described in Section V.

B. Application for Accreditation or for Reaccreditation

Self-Study Submission

Programs applying for Accreditation or re-Accreditation will be notified by the ACGC Executive Office 18 months prior to the due date for submission of their self-study via AMS. A second notice from ACGC will be sent to program leadership six to nine months before the self-study is due. The self-study should be submitted on August 1 of the year prior to the accreditation review year (e.g., due August 1, 2021 for a 2022 review year cycle).

Program leadership is responsible to submit fully completed self-study materials via AMS prior to the August 1 date. The Executive Office will confirm receipt of the application within 1-2 business days.

The Site Visit

The program director will be notified by the PRC or the Executive Office with names of the proposed site visit team. A team leader will be identified. Programs will be given the opportunity to reject any member of the site team for reasons of conflict.

The team leader or the Executive Office will contact the program director to:

- a. describe what the team will need during the visit, including but not limited to:
 - i. private room(s) for interviews,
 - ii. a list of individuals (students, faculty, program leadership, administrators) that the team wishes to interview, and documentation that may be requested
- b. develop an agenda for the visit
- c. confirm operational or logistical details (e.g., ground transportation, access to building, etc.).

Depending on the size of the program, the visit usually spans 1.5-2 days and involves 2-4 site visitors. On the first day of a typical visit, the team will expect to tour the facilities (classrooms, laboratories, library, computer resources, and students' workspace) and to conduct interviews with the program director, administrative officers, the medical director, faculty, students, and program graduates.

Program leadership will be asked to have documents, and/or access to electronic documents, ready for review by the team. These may include:

- a. students' records (to determine if student progress is being appropriately monitored, and to confirm that they can complete degree requirements in the expected time).
- b. reviews, progress sheets, or evaluations from students' clinical experiences.
- c. internal documentation of the numbers and types of clinical cases seen by students, and their roles in the patients' evaluation and counseling.
- d. documentation of academic achievements, such as exams, presentations, thesis or capstone project, papers.
- e. affiliation agreements or memos of understanding with clinical sites involved in training.

Team members may request travel (if necessary) to visit clinic sites to tour the facilities and interview clinical supervisors. They may request additional interviews or documents based on the findings during the first day's site visit.

The team leader will schedule an exit briefing with the program director which usually occurs by early afternoon of the second day. During this discussion, the team leader may share an initial summary of observations. The team leader will outline the next steps and timeline for PRC and Board review of the team's findings. Site visitors are not involved in, and do not make, the accreditation decision which is solely the responsibility of ACGC Board.

Action Timeline

Within 2 weeks of the visit, the site team leader will forward the completed final Site Visit Report to the ACGC Executive Director. The Executive Director then sends the report to the program director and the PRC chair. The program director is given two weeks to respond with any necessary clarifications to the report. After this response period, members of the PRC and the site visit team leader meet by conference call to discuss their findings and formulate a recommendation to the Board regarding accreditation. In the event that areas of non-compliance are revealed in the peer review process, the program director will be notified by the Executive Office of the specific areas of concern. The notification will include a formal request for program response and/or a plan for remediation of the potential area of non-compliance with Standards. The Accreditation decision may be deferred until the program response is received and any remediation has successfully been accomplished.

For a list of possible accreditation decisions see Section V.

V. Accreditation Statuses and Decisions (Revised Standards, Effective Oct. 1, 2019, Section D)

The following sections describe accreditation statuses and decisions that may be made by ACGC. All decisions regarding accreditation are at the sole discretion of ACGC, which reserves the right to interpret the Standards and to modify conditions and terms of a program's accreditation as needed.

A. Accreditation Statuses

1. Candidacy

Candidacy applies to a developing program that has submitted an Application for Candidacy which has been approved by the Board. ACGC Candidates are eligible to submit a New Program Application for Accreditation.

Candidacy is a public status.

2. Accredited, New Program

Accredited New Program status applies to a Candidate program that has submitted a New Program Application for Accreditation which has been approved by the Board.

Accredited New Program is a public status.

3. Accredited

Accredited status applies to a program that has submitted an Accreditation Self-Study which has been approved by the Board.

Accredited is a public status.

4. Accredited with Contingencies

Accredited with Contingencies status applies to a program that ACGC Board has determined does not fully comply with one or more Standards or has deficiencies that have the potential to negatively affect student progress or success.

These contingencies may include, but are not limited to:

- a shortened accreditation period.
- a requirement to adjust class size and/or numbers of faculty, staff, or supervisors.
- denial of new class matriculation.
- requirements for additional reporting to document progress in achieving compliance.

Accredited with Contingencies is not a public status.

Failure to comply with contingency requirements may result in Accreditation Warning, Probationary Accreditation or Revocation of Accreditation.

5. Probationary Accreditation

Probationary Accreditation status applies to a program that ACGC Board has determined is out of compliance with one or more Standards, causing serious, pervasive issues that interfere with the educational effectiveness of the program. Probationary Accreditation may be held for no longer than 12 months.

Probationary Accreditation is a public status.

Accredited with Contingencies may be imposed during the period of probationary accreditation. Failure to comply with probation requirements may result in Revocation of Accreditation.

B. Accreditation Decisions

1. Grant of Candidacy or Accreditation Status

- Program review demonstrates that all applicable Standards have been met.
- Programs must submit the application for New Program accreditation within three review cycles of receiving Candidacy status. If an application is not received within three review cycles, candidacy status will lapse at that point.
- Accredited, New Program status is held for 4 years at which time the program is reviewed for Accredited program status.
- Accredited program status is granted for up to 8 years.

2. Deferral

At times, ACGC may defer an accreditation decision and request additional information. During this period, the program will be notified and maintains its existing status (e.g., “Accredited,” “Accredited with Contingencies,” or Probationary Accreditation) until a decision on the accreditation status is made.

3. Change of Accreditation Status

The Board may change the accreditation status of a program as described in Section V.A.

4. Accreditation Warning

If during a program’s period of accreditation, the Board determines that the program is out of compliance with one or more of the Standards, but with proper attention by the program, areas of non-compliance can be remedied within a short period of time, the Board may issue a warning to the program.

- ACGC Executive Director will provide a written warning to the program describing the specific areas of non-compliance and specifying the length of time the program has to provide a response.
- By the end of the allotted time, the program must provide written evidence of satisfactory resolution of the area(s) of non-compliance.
- If the program does not respond to the warning satisfactorily by the deadline, ACGC can decide (based on the number and type of non-compliance) to assign Accreditation with Contingencies, or Probationary Accreditation or to revoke accreditation. ACGC does not consider a warning to be public information and the program is not required to make it public.
- Any contingency described in Section III.A. 4 may be imposed together with Accreditation Warning.

5. Denial of Accreditation

If a program that has applied for Accredited New Program status, Accreditation, or Reaccreditation (Section IX).

- A program whose application has been denied and has exhausted appeal rights may apply for Candidacy no less than one year after being notified of ACGC's final decision. Any areas of non-compliance that led to the original denial decision and have not been corrected could negatively impact the acceptance of the application.

6. Denial of Candidacy

Denial of Candidacy is explained in Section IV.

7. Revocation of Accreditation

ACGC may revoke accreditation if, in its judgment, an accredited program is so seriously out of compliance with standards that it cannot provide satisfactory educational and/or clinical training and is unlikely to be able to achieve compliance within a reasonable timeframe.

Revocation of accreditation is subject to reconsideration and appeal (Section IX). As with a program whose accreditation is denied, one whose accreditation is revoked may submit an application for Candidacy after at least one year has elapsed.

8. Voluntary Withdrawal of Accreditation

Programs may voluntarily withdraw from accreditation by notifying the Executive Director of ACGC in writing.

9. Lapse of Accreditation Status

In the event a program that holds the status of full accreditation, probationary accreditation or accreditation with contingencies does not, after notice from ACGC, submit a timely application for reaccreditation, its accreditation will be deemed to have lapsed. A lapse in accreditation is not subject to reconsideration or appeal.

VI. Maintaining Accreditation

Report of Current Status

Annually, during its period of accreditation, a program must complete a Report of Current Status (RCS) and pay all required fees by the date specified by the Executive Office. Specific requirements for annual reporting can be found on the ACGC website. RCS forms are completed and submitted via ACGC's web-based Accreditation Management System.

The purpose of the RCS is to provide ACGC with information about the program's compliance with the Standards throughout the period of accreditation. Programs must also report specific information about student fieldwork experiences. This is a templated report administered annually through AMS that documents ongoing data relative to student performance and success. It provides a one-time snapshot of program function, student access to program fundamentals, and non-substantive changes in finances and budget, curriculum, and faculty.

The Report of Current (RCS) announcement is sent to program leadership early in each new year with a program-specific link to the AMS system. The report is completed online using the AMS link. Completed reports are due June 15th. Data from previous years is saved and available for review when completing the current RCS information. Program directors should contact the Executive Office for appropriate access for additional leadership who may assist in completing the RCS information form.

In the year that programs undergo reaccreditation review, they are not required to submit an RCS in June as they will submit an Accreditation Self-Study document on August 1st.

Report of Program Leadership Change (See Standards A2.1.1b, A2.1.1c)
Substantive Change Notification (See Section VII)

VII. Substantive Change Policy

A. Substantive Changes

It is the responsibility of each accredited program to notify the Executive Office of substantive changes in a program to ensure maintenance of accreditation status and protection of students. Failure to report a substantive change might place the accreditation of a program in jeopardy. Program directors are encouraged to contact the Executive Office with any questions about whether a contemplated change would be considered substantive under ACGC policies and seek approval before implementing the change.

Notification of substantive change is submitted by letter from the program director to the Executive office and must document the nature and scope of the substantive change, as well as the rationale for the change. The letter must outline how, if at all, the change affects the program's compliance with the accreditation standards. The program is responsible for documenting that it has the necessary resources in place to implement the proposed change.

A substantive change is a significant modification or expansion of the nature and scope of a program. A substantive change includes, but is not limited to:

1. Change in Established Program Budget

Any change in the budget that results in a reduction of revenue or resources of the program by more than 15% in a single year or 20% cumulative over 3 years or increase in costs by more than 15% as compared to the most recently submitted program budget. Standards A1.2.1

Documentation required:

- Budget Table Template
- Letter from the Univ. administration documenting commitment to ensuring
- Letter of rationale from the Program Director

2. Change in Established Program Mission or Goals

Any change that substantively impacts the previously stated mission or goals of a program, such that the professional trajectory for enrolled students could be considered to have changed. Standards A3.2.3

Documentation required:

- Letter of rationale, including how the change impacts the overall program (examples include, but are not limited to: curriculum, current and future students, faculty, student evaluation, fieldwork experience, and degree requirements)
- New and old mission and goals

3. Change in Curriculum

Any change in curriculum that affects 20% or more of the course work credit hours or 4 or more didactic courses, whichever is smaller, required for degree completion. This does not include fieldwork experiences or rotation credit hours because that is addressed as a separate change. Standards: B1.1.2; B1.1.3; B1.1.5; B1.3.1; B2.1; B2 (B2.2.1 - B2.2.9)

Documentation required:

- Letter of rationale
- New course syllabi
- New faculty biosketches, if applicable
- Table mapping educational objectives and the required content to the PBCs (Tables B.I.A – B.I.D)
- New budget table, if the change impacts the budget

4. Change in Fieldwork Placement and Affiliation Sites

Any permanent change in fieldwork placements that affects 25% or more of the program's fieldwork sites or loss of a specific fieldwork specialty (e.g. cancer, prenatal, pediatrics, adult, laboratory). Standard A1.1.3, B3.1

Documentation required:

- Letter of rationale
- Rotation schedule for two years
- Confirmation of affiliation agreements and appropriate fieldwork supervisors

5. Change in Established Sponsoring Institution including acquisition by another institution. Standard A1.1, A1.2, A3.1

Documentation required:

- New Program Application and accompanying application fee

6. Change in Delivery Method of Didactic Coursework

Any change in the delivery method of didactic coursework in which more than 10% of the curriculum will be offered through a different modality than previously reported (e.g., a program currently offers 13 courses in person and would like to transition 3 of these courses to an online/distance learning format). Standard A1.4.1, B1.1, B2

Documentation required:

- Rationale for the change to instructional delivery mode and impact on program facilities.

- Description of how faculty will be trained for this new delivery mode.
- Description of how effectiveness of the new delivery mode will be evaluated, including documentation of student learning outcomes (SLOs).
- Documentation of information to be provided to students regarding the new delivery mode (e.g., equipment requirements; access to help desk, etc.).

7. Establishing a new off-campus instructional (not including fieldwork) site or closing an approved off-campus instructional site or branch campus. Standard A1.2.2, B1.1.

Documentation required:

- Projected date of the change of operations at the additional location.
- Address and distance from main campus; transportation and housing available for students.
- Rationale for change and impact on current students
- Description of current and prospective student communication regarding program instructional site change.
- Description of support services and learning resources available at the location.
- Compliance with Standards in Section A.
- Letter of support from new site administration.

8. Change in Program Enrollment

Any change in student enrollment not previously approved by ACGC that increases the total number of students enrolled in the program by more than 10% or 4 total students (whichever is smaller). Student enrollment is defined as the class size at the time of the most recent accreditation decision. Standards A1.2.1, A1.2.2, A2.1.1, A2.2.2, A2.3, A2.4, B3.1.7, B3.1.8, B3.1.9, B3.2.6

Documentation required:

- Provide a letter of rationale, including compliance with Facilities and Learning Resources (Standard sections to be specified) of the Standards.
- Describe proposed change in student enrollment over the accreditation period.
- Provide updated budget.
- Provide proposed fieldwork rotation schedule map (for two cohorts) with list of fieldwork sites/supervisors.

The substantive change notification is reviewed by the Board of Directors. Upon review of the notification, the Board of Directors may act to approve the change or may request additional information. The Board's review of a substantive change application may result in additional reporting requirements, or a focused or comprehensive on-site evaluation. In the event the program undertakes a substantive change without prior notification to ACGC or otherwise does not follow the Substantive Change Policy, the program's accreditation could be negatively impacted. Late notification may be subject to additional fees and jeopardizes a program's compliance with the Standards.

A denial of a substantive change is subject to reconsideration and appeal in accordance with Section VIII of ACGC policies and procedures.

VIII. Complaints, Requests for Reconsideration and Appeals

A. Complaints

Any person (including student, general public, faculty, government agency, and any other organization) concerned about the quality of a Genetic Counseling Program accredited by the Accreditation Council for Genetic Counseling (ACGC) may contact the ACGC Executive Office.

Jurisdiction

ACGC will consider and investigate only those complaints containing allegations which, if substantiated, may indicate noncompliance with the ACGC Standards for Accreditation.

ACGC is not a mediator of disputes and, generally, will not interpose itself in a manner that limits the discretion of a program in the normal operation of its personnel or academic policies and procedures, unless a violation of the ACGC Standards is specifically alleged.

Such matters include: admission, appointment, promotion, or dismissal of faculty or students.

ACGC will not seek any type of compensation, re-admission, or other redress on behalf of an individual.

ACGC will not respond to or take action upon any complaint that is defamatory, hostile, or profane. In addition, ACGC will not involve itself in collective bargaining disputes.

ACGC will not intervene on behalf of individuals in cases where the situation giving rise to the complaint occurred so far in the past that ascertaining the facts might prove to be difficult or impossible.

ACGC typically will not take any action based on an anonymous complaint.

Filing a Complaint

ACGC complaint must be made using ACGC Complaint Form. The form must either be emailed or mailed to the ACGC Executive Office. A complaint must set forth specific facts and circumstances that, if found to be true, would show that the program is not meeting one or more of ACGC's Standards of Accreditation or other requirements. It is expected that the complaint will include the specific Standards enumerated in the complaint documentation.

Processing a Complaint

Within 10 days after receipt of the complaint, the ACGC Executive Director will send a letter or email to the complainant acknowledging receipt of the complaint and explaining the general process ACGC will follow in investigating the complaint.

If a complaint indicates circumstances which, if substantiated, may indicate noncompliance with accreditation Standards, the ACGC staff may request that written corroboration be provided within 30 days from the date of the complaint. Such corroboration might include letters or other documentation not previously provided to the ACGC by the complainant.

Although the complaint will be treated with discretion, the ACGC does not guarantee the confidentiality of the complainant. Specifically:

Any information about a program or school may be released to the Program Official, Dean, Department Head, or Administrative Supervisor (hereinafter, each is referred to as a “Program Official”), members and staff of the ACGC, their respective attorneys, and other persons authorized by the Program Official, required by law, or necessary, in the discretion of the ACGC, to fully investigate the complaint.

The complainant and any corroborators will be required to sign an authorization to release the written complaint and corroborating materials to the Program Official, members and staff of the ACGC, their respective attorneys, and appropriate outside parties.

The ACGC Executive Committee will determine whether a complaint raises issues relating to compliance with accreditation Standards. If the ACGC Executive Committee determines that the complaint does not raise such issues, the ACGC Executive Director will notify the complainant, in a timely manner, that the complaint is outside the jurisdiction of the ACGC.

The ACGC Executive Committee determines that the complaint raises issues relating to compliance with accreditation Standards, the ACGC Executive Director will investigate the complaint in accordance with the procedure set forth in section 4.

Investigating a Complaint

The Executive Director will acknowledge receipt of a complaint within 10 days. If the ACGC Executive Committee determines that there is insufficient evidence that a program is not in compliance with accreditation Standards, the Executive Director will notify the complainant that the complaint will not be investigated and close the matter. Otherwise, the Executive Director will notify the complainant that the ACGC has initiated an investigation.

The Executive Director will notify the Program Official of the complaint in writing within 30 days and require a response to allegations which may include answers to specific questions or documentation, or materials. The Executive Director will set a deadline for response not to exceed 60 days.

If after receiving the program’s response, the Executive Committee determines that there is evidence that the program is not in compliance with accreditation standards, the complaint will be referred to the ACGC Grievance Committee. Otherwise, the Executive Director will close the complaint. In all instances, the complainant will receive notice of the status of the complaint.

Grievance Committee Review

The Grievance Committee is appointed by the President of the Board and must include at least one public member, one practicing genetic counselor and one academic representative. No more than one member of the Grievance Committee shall be a current program director. All members of the Grievance Committee are subject to the ACGC Conflict of Interest and Confidentiality Policies.

After reviewing the complaint and the program's response, the Grievance Committee may request additional information or a progress report, schedule a limited survey or site visit, or take any other appropriate action to further investigate the matter. The Grievance Committee will review and report their findings to the Executive Committee.

In the event the Grievance Committee determines that sufficient evidence exists that the program may not be in compliance with accreditation Standards, the Grievance Committee shall recommend to the Board that a program's status be changed to Accreditation Warning, Accreditation with Contingencies, Probationary Accreditation or that accreditation be revoked.

Board of Directors Hearing and Review

The Board shall review the Grievance Committee Record.

Action

The Executive Director shall notify the primary program contact on file in writing of the Board's decision, including the reasons for this decision, within 30 days. This decision shall be sent to the Program Official by Federal Express or other overnight/traceable carrier (or electronically). This decision by the Board shall constitute the final decision of the ACGC on the matter. A decision to revoke accreditation will be appealable pursuant to the ACGC Rules.

Expenses

If the complaint is found to have merit, all expenses incurred by the ACGC in investigating and resolving the complaint will be reimbursed by the program.

B. Decisions Subject to Reconsideration and Appeals

Denial of Accreditation and Revocation of Accreditation are adverse actions. Adverse actions are subject to reconsideration and are appealable. In the case of an appealable action, the ACGC notifies the program and its institution's Dean or Program Director and Chief Executive Officer, stating specific reasons for the denial or revocation. Such actions are not made public for 30 days following notification and are not made public until final.

Decisions to assign Accreditation Warning, Accreditation with Contingencies, Probationary Accreditation, or to defer an accreditation decision are not deemed an adverse decision and accordingly are not subject to reconsideration or appeal.

Request for Reconsideration

A program that has received an appealable accreditation decision will be promptly notified of the decision by written notice delivered by overnight/traceable carrier by the deadline for notification stated by the Board. The notice shall state the reason(s) for the decision and inform the program director that he or she has the right to seek review of the decision by filing a written "Request for Reconsideration" with the Executive Office. At the time of notification, the Executive Office shall furnish the program director with a copy of the ACGC Process for Reconsideration and Appeal. To be valid, a Request for Reconsideration must be received by the Executive Office no more than thirty (30) calendar days after the program director receives notice of the adverse decision.

A Request for Reconsideration must contain a statement of why the program director believes that the ACGC's decision was improper and include any supporting documentation that the program wishes to have considered during the review. Information contained in the Request for Reconsideration may include evidence that the program has remedied the deficiencies that were the subject of the adverse accreditation decision.

Reconsideration Process

A Request for Reconsideration must be accompanied by a check, money order or credit card payment in the amount of $500 made payable to the Accreditation Council for Genetic Counseling. This fee will not be refunded regardless of the outcome of the review.

The Executive Office forwards to each member of the Board the program's Request for Reconsideration, the complete file of all documents concerning the program that were available to the Program Review Committee and upon which the Board relied in making the accreditation decision.

If after reviewing the Request for Reconsideration and the Review Record, the Board determines that there is no reason to alter the decision, it shall affirm its decision. If, on the other hand, the Board determines that the program submitted adequate evidence of remediation, or that the original decision was not supported by the evidence, or that the ACGC's policies and procedures were not followed, it shall modify or reverse its original decision.

The Executive Director is responsible for providing a written summary of the Board's findings and a justification for its decision to the program director within 60 calendar days of receipt of request.

Decisions on reconsideration are appealable in accordance with Section VII C. below.

Appeals

Notice of Appeal: A program that intends to appeal a Board decision on reconsideration must file a written Notice of Appeal addressed to the Executive Director within 10 days of receipt of the notice of decision. In the event a Notice of Appeal is not timely filed, the adverse decision will become final.

Appeal Brief: Within 30 days of filing the Notice of Appeal, the program must submit an appeal brief setting forth the reasons why the Board's decision should be changed.

Standard of Review: The Appeal Panel (see below) will consider whether the decision of the Board was erroneous as a matter of fact, was arbitrary and capricious or not based on substantial evidence on the record at the time the Board made its decision.

Burden of Proof: The program has the burden of proof.

Appeal Panel Composition

The Appeal Panel is appointed by the Board of Directors and is composed of individuals who were not involved in the original decision. The Appeal Panel should include:

- Public Member
- Academic member/educator
- Current Genetic Counseling Practitioner
- Current or recent Site Visitor who was not involved in this program's review

Protections Against Conflict of Interest in Appeals

A member of the Appeal Panel shall not have participated in the most recent site visit or any review of the program that led to the Board's adverse accreditation decision and:

- shall not have or have had any close personal relationship or professional association
- with the program or the program's director.
- shall declare any potential conflict of interest and sign a confidentiality statement. The ACGC
- Executive Committee shall resolve any question regarding a potential conflict.

The Record on Appeal

The Appeal Panel will consider the entire record in the matter, including the program's appeal brief. No new evidence will be considered by the Appeal Panel. New evidence is information that was not formally before the Board on the record at the time the Board made its decision to deny or revoke accreditation.

Decision on Appeal

The Appeal Panel will determine by majority vote whether to affirm, reverse, remand or modify the appealed decision and report the decision and rationale to the Board within 15 days of the date of the decision.

Notification of Decision

The Executive Office shall notify the program director of the Appeal Panel's decision and the reasons for the decision in writing (either electronically or via overnight/traceable carrier) within 30 days after receipt of the Appeal Panel's Report.

Appeal Hearing

The program may request a hearing before the Appeal Panel. The request must be made at the time the program files the Notice of Intent to Appeal and must include the names and affiliations of the representatives of the program and state whether the program will be represented by legal counsel.

All expenses incurred by the program director and his/her representatives in connection with the hearing shall be borne by the program and/or its sponsoring institution.

Hearing Procedure

The Appeal Panel will set aside two hours for the appeal hearing. The hearing will include an opening statement by the Chair of the Appeal Panel which will describe the proceeding and the process of review. Representatives of the program and ACGC will have an opportunity to offer opening and closing statements addressing the grounds for appeal which will be limited to 20 minutes. The Appeal Panel will pose questions to the program representatives. The Appeal Panel Chair will offer a closing statement.

The appeal hearing is not considered to be adversarial in nature. Accordingly, there will not be witnesses or cross examination.

A record of the hearing will be maintained by ACGC as a permanent part of the archives of the Board. A copy of the hearing record shall be made available to the program director upon payment of the cost of reproduction.

IX. Choice of Forum

Accredited members, former members, and applicants for accreditation agree that they must exhaust all administrative remedies provided for in the ACGC Bylaws and Accreditation Manual before initiating any suit, claim, or proceeding in a court of law; that any suit, claim, or proceeding relating to accreditation status (whether a claim for damages or for injunctive or declaratory relief), that is brought against the ACGC, a Board member, a volunteer, or a staff member acting in his or her official capacity by an accredited member, a former member, or an applicant for accreditation shall be adjudicated only in the U.S. District Court for Kansas shall be deemed to have entered into in Johnson County, Kansas. The laws of the State of Kansas shall govern the interpretation and performance of the terms of the ACGC Bylaws and Accreditation Manual, as well as any dispute between an accredited member, former member, or applicant for accreditation and the ACGC, regardless of the law that might otherwise be applied under any principles of conflicts of laws. All accredited members, former members, and applicants for accreditation agree that jurisdiction and venue for any action which might arise from any accreditation agreement or accreditation action between the program and the ACGC, regardless of which party shall initiate the action, shall be exclusively in the United States District Court for the District of Kansas or the state courts of Johnson County, Kansas, whichever of these courts shall have proper subject matter jurisdiction

Appendix A

ACGC 2019 - 2020 Strategic Plan

Goals

Goal 1: Communicate the value and role of accreditation in ensuring quality in genetic counselor graduate education.

OBJ 1a.: Develop a communication strategy that supports the stated values of the organization.

OBJ 1b: Improve communication with key stakeholders regarding the accreditation decision-making process.

OBJ 1c: Engage collaboratively with related professional organizations on broader strategic initiatives in the field of genetic counseling.

OBJ 1d: Promote the use of educational outcomes (e.g. graduation rate, exam pass rate, employment rate) in the assessment of quality of genetic counselor graduate education programs and develop benchmarks of minimum expectations for program performance

Goal 2: Explore areas of challenge and opportunity for genetic counselor graduate education, as identified by training programs and other key stakeholders, to inform standards, policies, and procedures.

OBJ 2a: Monitor and respond to challenges, successful strategies, and service delivery shifts that impact fieldwork training of genetic counselor graduate students.

OBJ 2b: Support efforts to improve diversity in genetic counselor graduate education

Goal 3: Explore the role of North American accreditation standards, policies, and procedures within the international landscape of genetic counselor graduate education, certification/registration, and practice.

OBJ 3a: Explore the commonalities and divergences between genetic counselor graduate education and accreditation processes and practices across the world

OBJ 3b: Engage global partners in the exploration of genetic counselor graduate education standards.

Goal 4: Continue to develop operational policies and procedures that ensure long-term stability of the organization.

OBJ 4a: Align governance and policies with accreditation best practices

OBJ 4b: Assess and build an appropriate team of volunteers and staff for long-term sustainability of the organization.

OBJ 4c: Develop a plan for long-term financial solvency

ACGC 2019 Fee Updates

As part of the ongoing effort to facilitate genetic counseling graduate program growth, ACGC has not increased fees for the past 4 years despite rising costs for services required to support the process of accreditation. During this time, there has been a rapid expansion in number and size of programs, necessitating increased investment in support services, volunteer coordination, and Board time dedicated to maintaining program compliance with the Standards. To continue to meet our mission of fostering excellence in education for the future of genetic counseling, ACGC is announcing an updated fee structure effective January 1, 2019.

Aligned with ACGC's continuing commitment to keep accreditation fees at manageable levels for programs, annual fees for accredited programs in good standing and site visit fees will remain the same. Rather than raising all fees, ACGC has approved new fees that reflect accreditation requests/requirements beyond the scope of those services provided as part of annual fees. The ACGC Board of Directors and Finance Committee reviewed accreditation best practices and the fees charged by accrediting agencies for comparable healthcare professions to guide the creation of this fee structure. The updated fee structure is outlined below.

Accredited Program Fees
Type of Fee	Amount	Description
Annual Maintenance of Accreditation	$4000 Accredited $4500 Accredited New Program $6000 Probationary Accreditation	Fee to maintain accreditation, includes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Review of annual Report of Current Status, including determination Review of Reaccreditation Application/Self Study and Site Visit Report at the time of reaccreditation, including determination User account on Accreditation Management Software platform for online submission and tracking of all accreditation related documents and deadlines. Routine communication/requests to ACGC throughout the year, excluding requests for: substantive change, interpretive guidance, and petition for variance. Fees associated with these requests are outlined below. *Assessed annually, due on or before June 15th
Site Visit	$4500 < 30 students $6000 ≥ 30 students	Fee for any site visit to the program (routine or additional/special): includes costs associated with preparation for site visit, travel to/from program, preparation of documents following the visit. *Due on or before June 15th for routine and invoiced for additional/special
